Nanjing Metropolitan Area

INDUSTRIAL INNOVATION CIRCLE

Promote the cooperation of industrial parks, speed up the construction of Nanjing-Chuzhou and Nanjing-Ma'anshan cross-boundary integration development demonstration zone and the application of Nanjing Huai'an Special Cooperation Zone (Intelligent Manufacturing Industrial Park); to become a Provincial Pilot Innovation Park, and support Laian-Chahe Rail Transport Equipment Industrial Park and Dingyuan Chemical Industrial Park to undertake industrial transfer.

RAIL CITY CIRCLE

Basically construct a comprehensive "one-hour" urban transportation network within the metropolitan area by 2022.

RESOURCE ALLOCATION CIRCLE

Become a gateway and hub in the planning of Yangtze River Delta Integration, connecting the east and the west, the north and the south, the sea and land. Build itself into a key node in domestic circulation and a strategic channel in the new development paradigm, where the domestic market serves as the mainstay and domestic and international markets reinforce each other.

LIVABLE LIVING CIRCLE

Establish a new model of balanced allocation of resources for employment, education, medical care, culture and tourism between urban and rural areas, and gradually accomplish the goal of the consistent public service policies, synchronized work, and shared development.

Nanjing Overview

Located along China's developed eastern coast, Nanjing (or "Ning" for short), is a sub-provincial city and the capital of Jiangsu province. Nanjing covers an area of 6,587 square kilometers. The world's third longest river — the Yangtze — traverses the city's southwest region to the northeast. Over 9.31 million people reside in Nanjing, and the city administers the following 11 districts, namely Xuanwu, Qinhuai, Jianye, Gulou, Qixia, Yuhuatai, Jiangning, Pukou, Luhe, Lishui, and Gaochun. Nanjing currently boasts one state-level new area — Nanjing Jiangbei New Area, China (Jiangsu) Pilot Free Trade Zone Nanjing Area, and one state-level high-tech zone — Nanjing High-tech Industrial Development Zone. Another two state-level ones are Nanjing Economic and Technological Development Zone and Jiangning Development Zone.

Historical and cultural background

Reputed as the "ancient capital of six dynasties" and a "metropolis of ten dynasties", Nanjing has a civilization history of over 6,000 years, a city history of nearly 2,500 years and a capital history of nearly 500 years. Nanjing has the longest preserved Ming city wall, the World Heritage Site, Ming Xiaoling, and Nanjing Yunjin Brocade Craft and Nanjing Scripture Engraving which are selected into the UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage Lists.

Eco-friendly livable city

Nanjing's natural biodiversity and environment bring together mountains, forests, and rivers and urban areas for a truly livable and green city. With Zhongshan scenic spot as a notable landmark, the city locates along the Yangtze River and is interspersed by Xuanwu Lake. Richly endowed with an urban landscape and a natural environment, Nanjing is also encircled by the Qinhuai River. Nanjing's environmental quality index (EQI) has topped among cities in the Yangtze River Delta region for a long time. The city is known as an International Garden City, a National Forest City, a National Ecological City, and is a nationally-ranked destination for tourism.

Science and education resources

As a highland for science, technology, and education in China, Nanjing has 53 colleges and universities, with a total of roughly 918,000 on-campus undergraduate and graduate students. Every year, Nanjing sees more than 200,000 college graduates. The city ranks first and second nationally in terms of the number of on-campus undergraduate and graduate students per 10,000 people. Home to 85 academicians of CAS and CAE, Nanjing boasts 403 engineering research centers, 85 public science & technology platforms, and 89 key laboratories at or above provincial level, including 29 state-level laboratories.

Efficient transportation

Nanjing's three transportation hubs feature high-speed railway, airport, inland port, and five modes of transport including air, rail, water, highway, and pipeline. The city's comprehensive transit systems make it a well-operated transportation hub. Lukou International Airport's 140 airlines connect Nanjing to the rest of the country, as well as Asia, Europe, and North America. Nanjing South Railway Station is a key hub of China's national high-speed rail network and the Port of Nanjing operates as the largest transshipment port along the Yangtze River region. The city also has an important position as the national Internet backbone straight point and one of the first batch of cities in future network backbone connections.

The city currently runs 10 metro lines with a total mileage of 378 kilometers and two tramlines adding up to 16.86 kilometers. Six pathways traversing the Yangtze River and nine metro lines are under construction.

Thriving economy and industries

Nanjing has a strong economic foundation. In 2020, the city's gross regional product amounted to RMB 1,481.795 billion (about USD 229.2 billion). The growth rate topped among the Chinese cities with a GDP of more than a trillion yuan. Since the reform and opening up, the scale of the economy, for the first time, has ascended to the top ten among large and medium-sized cities in the country; general public budget revenue reached RMB 163.77 billion, an increase of 3.7%, the tax revenue accounting for 85.2%; fixed asset investment added up to RMB 541.8 billion, an increase of 6.6%; the total retail sales of social consumer goods reached RMB 720.3 billion, achieving positive growth; the import and export volume totaled RMB 534.021 billion, an increase of 10.6%, accounting for nearly 60% of the provincial revenue; the actual usage of foreign investment amounted to USD 4.515 billion, an increase of 10.1%; the per capita disposable income of all residents grew by 5.2%.

Located in the Low-carbon Ecological Core Demonstration Zone in the south of Hexi New Town, Nanjing International Friendship Park (formerly known as Hexi Ecological Park) covers a total area of 21.7 hectares. As a low-carbon, ecological and intelligent urban park, it opened to the public in June 2014. To meet people's ever-growing needs for a better life and foster a broad global perspective, the CPC Municipal Committee and the People's Government of Nanjing decided in 2018 to build the park into a platform for Nanjing's international exchanges, which was officially renamed Nanjing International Friendship Park later in 2019. Nanjing International Friendship Park is jointly constructed and managed by the Foreign Affairs Office of Nanjing Municipal People's Government and the Development and Construction Headquarters of Nanjing Hexi New Town. Sculptures designed by Nanjing's sister cities will be placed in the park successively. An array of national flags of the countries where Nanjing's sister cities are located has been set up along the lakeshore, and a new international friendship forest has also been arranged. Two rest areas in the park can provide tourists with urban book bars and parent-child space, where they can make a pit stop. The sunken plaza outside the exhibition hall serves as an area to hold theme parties from time to time, aiming to develop into a model international city living room. Nanjing Sister Cities Exhibition Hall is located underground in the park. With a floor area of 1,100 square meters, the exhibition hall has 7 showrooms including Asia Hall, Europe Hall, America Hall, Oceania Hall and Africa Hall, and is home to nearly 170 gifts from sister cities, including sculptures, paintings, handicrafts, commemorative plaques and a variety of interesting interactive devices, displaying in a vivid way Nanjing's international friendly exchanges and cooperation.

Expressway

Nanjing has a road network of expressway shaped as "belt + radiation", connecting Shanghai, Hangzhou, Xuancheng, Wuhu (Ma'anshan), Hefei, Bengbu, Xuzhou, Lianyungang, Nantong and other cities. Nanjing has a total mileage of expressways up to 538 kilometers, and in terms of the density of expressways, Nanjing ranks first in the province and in the forefront of sub-provincial cities in China. Nanjing will make further efforts to develop a network pattern of "two belts, two horizontal expressways and fourteen radial expressways" with a planned mileage of 665 kilometers. The "two belts" include belt freeway and metropolitan ring expressway; "two horizontal expressways" include Changzhou-Ma'anshan Expressway and Liyang-Wuhu Expressway; "fourteen radial expressways" include 14 expressways such as Shanghai-Nanjing Expressway, Nanjing-Hangzhou Expressway, Nanjing-Xuancheng Expressway, Nanjing-Ma'anshan Expressway, Nanjing-Hefei Expressway, Nanjing-Yancheng Expressway and Nanjing-Nantong Expressway. All are conducive to grounding the dual highways between Shanghai and Nanjing, Nanjing and Hangzhou, Nanjing and Hefei in Yangtze River Delta, and the direct expressways in districts and cities.

Port Services

Nanjing Port is an international, comprehensive and multifunctional hub port for river and sea transshipment, a national coastal and Class A port open to the outside. It is crucial to Nanjing as a regional shipping logistics center. Based on -12.5m deep-water channel in the Yangtze River, three highway-railway-waterway combined transportation hubs, namely, Longtan, Xiba and Xinshengwei, have been built. Besides, Nanjing Port is the only port that caters to seamless connection between container railway and waterway in the lower reaches of Yangtze River. It plans nine freight port areas such as Xinshengwei and Longtan, and four passenger port areas such as Pukou and Shangyuanmen, with 201 productive berths and annual design throughput capacity of 341 million tons. By the end of 2020, the port along the river have 188 productive berths, with a total throughput capacity of 198 million tons and a container throughput capacity of 1.83 million TEUs. 2020 has witnessed the port to obtain the cargo throughput of 249 million tons and the container throughput of 3.02 million TEUs.

Nanjing Cuisine

Nanjing cuisine, also known as Jingsu cuisine, Jingsu dainty cuisine, and Jinling cuisine, refers to the cuisine centered on Nanjing and extending to Jiujiang, Jiangxi. It is one of the four representative dishes of Su cuisine. Seven flavors and seven tastes of Nanjing cuisine are "Fresh, soft, crisp, tender, crunchy, thick, fat" and "sour, sweet, bitter, spicy, salty, fragrant, stinky". The highlight of Nanjing cuisine is duck delicacies. In addition, it also includes traditional Nanjing dishes, Nanjing native dishes and Nanjing wild vegetables, etc. The dishes meet the taste of people from both north and south, showing characteristics of all other cuisines around China.

Day 1: Visit the world cultural heritage [Ming Tomb Scenic Spot] and learn about the history of the early Ming Dynasty that has a profound influence on Nanjing's culture and folklore; walk into the [Nanjing Folklore Museum (Ganxi Mansion)] to learn about Nanjing's custom in the Qing Dynasty presented in "ninety-nine and a half rooms". In the ancient dwellings, you can get a glimpse of Jinling's folk custom and Nanjing's intangible cultural heritage. You can try to DIY "Qinhuai lanterns, Nanjing paper-cutting, Nanjing velvet flowers" and other handicrafts on the spot. On weekends, you can enjoy Nanjing local live rap for free; at noon, taste "Vegetarian Cuisine" at the [Halal Lvliuju Restaurant], a century-old restaurant with famous delicacies; in the afternoon, go to [Confucius Temple — Qinhuai Scenic Zone]. You can walk along the river, or stop by the river, listen to "Story of Jiangnan Gongyuan" and "Legend of Taoyedu". In the [Memorial Hall of Wang Dao and Xie An (Houses of Wang and Xie)] in the [Wuyi Lane], you can enjoy the "Jinling School" guqin rhyme. In the [Zhonghua Gate Barbican] or [Mendong Historical and Cultural Zone (Laomendong)], you can walk alongside the [Nanjing City Wall] to see the ingenuity and magnificence of the world's longest city wall. Visit the traditional intangible cultural heritage craftsmen in Mendong Lane. Taste "Qinhuai Snacks" and various delicacies at twilight, walk into the [Mustard Seed Garden] at night to listen to a local drama. If it falls on the Lunar New Year, in the series of venues of the "Qinhuai Lantern Festival", you can also get yourself a Qinhuai lantern to make a wish for the new year.

Day 2: In the morning at the century-old shop [Liu Changxing], order a set of steamed dumplings, a bowl of wonton or duck blood vermicelli soup, and enjoy the flavor of Nanjing in the hot steam; enter the "Intangible Heritage Gallery" of [Nanjing Museum] and watch "Jiangsu Provincial Intangible Cultural Heritage Exhibition"; then go to [Nanjing Yunjin Brocade Museum] to learn more about the national intangible cultural heritage "Nanjing Yunjin Brocade's Hand-weaving Techniques"; in the afternoon, we will go to [Mufu Mountain (Muyan Scenic Spot)] to experience the Nanjing custom of "climbing the Mufu Mountain". The commanding heights can give you a view of the sunset and clouds above the Yangtze River in the west; visit [Jiangsu Restaurant] in the evening to taste the gorgeous fragrance of "Jingsu Dainty Cuisine".

Epidemic Prevention Guide

Scientific Approach against COVID-19 – Citizens Self-protection Tips

Tip 1: Wear a mask to cover mouth and nose

Wearing a mask in a scientific way is not only for the benefit of others, but also conducive to self-protection. Please wash hands before wearing mask. It is recommended to wear disposable surgical mask, with the dark surface outward, metal strip nasal splint upward, and fold downward. Pinch the metal strip close to the bridge of the nose to make the mask completely cover the mouth, nose and chin.

Tip 2: Keep one meter apart

Covid-19 spreads among people mainly through respiratory droplets and close contact. Most droplets fall down to the ground about 0.8 meter to 1 meter away. So, separating people by one meter from each other can effectively mitigate the risk of infection.

Keep one meter apart for conversation, one meter apart for queuing, one meter apart for dining, one meter apart for meeting and in office... "one meter apart" is an effective way to block viral transmission.

Tip 3: Don't gather together

Frequent face-to-face interaction at parties and dinners creates the best hotbed for viral transmission. If one of them gets infected, he/she could infect more people, resulting in severe outbreak.

Avoid going to crowded places such as KTV, cinema, gym, swimming pool, bath site, mahjong parlor, chess and card room. Avoid gathering in outdoor areas.

Tip 4: Wash hands and disinfect frequently

When sneezing, coughing, or talking, infected patient may spray droplets onto doorknobs, bus railings, and elevator buttons. If others inadvertently touch these objects, their hands would be contaminated, and then if they touch their eyes, nose and mouth, they are easily infected with the virus. Hand washing can cut off viral transmission, effectively reducing the risk of infection.

Tip 5: Stay indoors

The Delta variant is more transmissible, and infected patients take longer to treat and recover and are more prone to severe illness. Therefore, more strict and comprehensive prevention and control measures must be taken to prevent the transmission and spread of the virus. During the epidemic outbreak, going out can add the risk of virus infection. Strengthening travel management is a good way to protect others, yourself and your family.

Tip 6: Present health code when travel

Health code can be viewed by National Government Service App, Jiangsu Government Service App, Alipay, Wechat and other software. Health code provides security for necessary travel. Health code is subject to "green, yellow and red" three-color dynamic management. Those who present green code are free pass; those who present yellow or red code must be under quarantine and sent to hospital for treatment.

Tip 7: Don't stay up late, don't overwork

Staying up late for a long time and overwork could not only accelerate the aging of the body, but also significantly weaken the immunity of the body. Reasonable rest, moderate exercise, regular work and rest, balanced diet and sufficient sleep are all not only effective means to enhance immunity and anti-virus ability, but also the premise of keeping a healthy lifestyle.

Tip 8: Maintain good attitude and health

We should not trust rumors, despite information explosion online. We should acquire epidemic-related information through official channels, obey epidemic prevention work arrangement, and stay in a good mood.

Tip 9: Vaccinate against virus

Novel coronavirus outbreaks aggressively with strong transmission and rapid variation. Orderly vaccination can gradually build up the immune barrier among people and block the epidemic.

In response to the national novel coronavirus vaccination policy, people should actively receive vaccination to protect their personal health. Vaccination should be made available to every person, which is not only for the benefit of self-protection but also for families and society.

Tip 10: Keep vigilant everyday

Now, novel coronavirus is still spreading all over the world, causing grim epidemic prevention and control situation. Everyone should make unremitting efforts in fighting the epidemic.

Everyone should keep a strong awareness of personal protection to fully normalize personal protection. Everyone should turn protection measures into good living habits, actively cooperate with social epidemic prevention and control measures, and take the primary responsibility for their own health.

Procedure of visa application (JW202 form) for foreign students in primary schools and secondary schools

Children of foreign nationals who study in kindergartens, primary schools and secondary schools can apply for visa for study in China by submitting JW202 form, if dependent visa is not available.

The procedure is as follows:

1. Online Review by Nanjing Municipal Education Bureau (NMEB)

One parent or guardian of the student sends the following documents to the following email address of NMEB: jw202nanjing@126.com.

- ① One headshot picture of the student.
- ② One PDF file that includes the school's certificate for accepting the students, passport page and visa page of the student, passport pages and visa pages of the parents.

2. Online Review by Jiangsu Education Department and Jiangsu Provincial Public Security Department

After reviewing the documents sent by email, NMEB will send a template of JW202 form by email to the parent or the guardian. The parent or the guardian should fill in the form without making any change to the template, fill in "N / A" if the items are not applicable, and then send the form back by email to NMEB.

NMEB will upload the documents and the JW202 form onto an online platform for further reviewing by Jiangsu Education Department and Jiangsu Provincial Public Security Department. If the review results are both "approved", NMEB will print the JW202 form and inform the parent or guardian through emails.

3. Stamping and Mailing of the Form

The parent or the guardian comes to NMEB to get the JW202 form, which has 4 pages. The school and the District Education Bureau have to stamp the admission section of page 2, page 3 and page 4. For international schools, only the school's stamp is needed. Please be noted to leave the first page clean. Then come back to NMEB for the stamp of NMEB. The parent or the guardian sends by courier service the stamped JW202 form to Jiangsu Education Department for the offline approval. The parent or the guardian should prepay the returning courier and write the returning address (SF-Express or EMS is preferred). The mailing information is as follows:
Address: Room 2206, No.15 West Beijing Road, Nanjing, Jiangsu; Recipient: Ms. Ren;
Tel: +86 25 83335872
Postal code: 210024

4. Applying for the visa

The parent or the guardian goes to the Exit-Entry Administration Department of Nanjing Municipal Public Security Bureau (No. 173 Baixia Road), to apply for the visa for study in China. Tel: +86 25 84420005

If there is any question, please call NMEB.
Address: No. 26 East Beijing Road, Xuanwu District, Nanjing

(2) Supporting materials for the cancellation of employment relationship, termination of contract, or other documents related to the reason of the cancellation (original). In terms of cancellation of employment relationship and termination of the contract, signatures of both parties are required.

Note: If a Foreigner's Work Permit fails to be extended at the expiry of its validity period, it should be canceled automatically. The revocation, withdrawal, and suspension of work permit in accordance with law should be performed by the Nanjing Foreign Experts Bureau. Where a foreign applicant dies, loses his or her capacity for action, terminates the contract in advance, or cancels the employment relationship, the employer should apply to the Nanjing Foreign Experts Bureau for cancellation within 10 workdays from the date of occurrence of such facts. If an employer is terminated, the applicant may apply to the Nanjing Foreign Experts Bureau for cancellation of work permit.

Social Insurance

I. Who needs to participate in the insurance?

A: Foreigners lawfully employed by enterprises, institutions, social organizations, private non-enterprise units, foundations, law firms, accounting firms and other organizations registered in China shall participate in basic pension insurance, basic medical insurance, work injury insurance, unemployment insurance and maternity insurance, and the employer and the employee shall pay social insurance premiums as required.

After entering into an employment contract with an overseas employer, the foreigner who is assigned to work in a branch or representative office registered in China shall also participate in social insurance according to law.

II. How do employers apply insurance for foreign employees?

A: After the foreigner is employed by the employer in Nanjing, the employer should bring his or her valid passport, "Foreigner's Work Permit", "Press Cards of Foreign Journalist", "Nanjing Talent Residence Permit", "Jiangsu Province Overseas High-Level Talent Residence Permit" or "Permanent Residence Permit of the People's Republic of China" and other valid documents. If there is a mutual exemption agreement, the employer must provide the original and a copy of the mutual exemption agreement and apply to the social insurance agency where the employer is registered for social insurance registration.

III. How to determine the contribution base?

A: 1. All types of insurances under the social insurance framework use the same contribution base. A new employee's insurance will be based on his/her very first monthly salary. From the second year onwards, the monthly contribution base for the current settlement year (July to the next June) will be declared by dividing the total salary income of the employee in the previous natural year by the actual number of months of salary paid. The contribution base declared by the employer should be known to the employee either through the latter's confirmation or public announcement.

2. According to the National Bureau of Statistics, the total wage income of employees include: hourly wages, piecework wages, bonuses, allowances and subsidies, such as overtime wages, wage income paid under special circumstances and so on.

3. The city human resources and social security department announces the upper and lower limits of the contribution base every year. If the employee's salary income exceeds the upper limit, it will not be included in the individual contribution base; if the employee's salary income is lower than the lower limit, the employee's individual contribution base will be determined according to the lower limit. The employer shall declare its contribution base according to the actual salary income of the employees. If the declared contribution base is higher than the upper limit or lower than the lower limit, it will be adjusted by the agency after the upper and lower limit of the contribution base is determined.

IV. How to transfer and continue the social insurance relationship?

A: If foreigners leave Nanjing for cross-region employment after suspending their pension insurance relationship, they can apply directly to the social insurance agency in the place of transfer or log on to the National Social Insurance Public Service Platform (<http://isi.12333.gov.cn/>), "12333 App" and Alipay. When foreigners apply for the basic pension insurance relationship transfer procedure, they are not restricted by the regulations of men under 50 years old and women under 40 years old.

V. How do foreigners enjoy social insurance benefits?

A: Foreigners who participate in social insurance can enjoy social insurance benefits if they meet the requirements. Foreigners who leave China before reaching the required pension age, can retain their personal social insurance account, and if they come to China for employment again, the number of years of contributions will be calculated in an accumulative manner; if they apply in writing to terminate the social insurance relationship, they can also obtain the amount stored in their personal social insurance account to themselves in a lump sum.
